(54) Title: UTILIZATION OF GEOGRAPHIC LOCATION INFORMATION IN IP ADDRESSING

(57) Abstract: The present invention teaches a method for generating geographical location based on addresses where the address is divided to prefix (10) and suffix (11). The suffix portion is administrated locally. In addition to the geographical location information the locally administrated portion can consist other information such as a device number. The geographical location information assigned to the suffix can be two or three dimensional.
